My Dear Sin: I have your letter of to-day tendering your resignation of the position of Assistant Attorney-ieneral for the Post Office Department. I regret the serious affliction which has come to you and which is of such a serious character as to preclude your discharging the duties of your office. It must, indeed, be painful for you to sever your relations with the Department with which you have been associated for so many years, and of which you were at one time the official head.

Tour resignation is accepted in view of all the official head.

Tour resignation is accepted in view of all the circumstances, but I deem it just and proper that it should take effect May I, 1903, and that you be given leave of absence until that date. I trust that this will give you rest and freedom from care and will be of material (aid in bringing improvement to your condition, which is at the present time of such a serious nature as to render impossible any labor on your part.

With kindest regards I am, very sincerely yours.

Postmaster-General.

These exchanges of polite regrets were thought to mark the close of Mr. Tyner's connection with the Department, his leave of absence being merely a matter of form and a courtesy extended to him in view of his financial condition and past services.

Late Tuesday evening, however, when ficers of the Assistant Attorney-General's fice had occasion to refer to the records office had occasion to refer to the records in a certain case, it was found that the big steel safe, where all the important and valuable documents are kept and which is invariably kept locked, had been rifled of its contents. Not only were the more important papers taken, but absolutely every scrap of paper and many articles of no possible value to Mr. Tyner or to any one else had been removed as well. The safe had been swept clean. The fact was immediately reported to the Postmaster-General, an investigation was begun and the fact of Mrs. Tyner's presence in the office the evening before was established. A number of inspectors were put on the

A number of inspectors were put on the case, and in a short time all the circumstances were brought to light. The incident happened a short time after 4 o'clock, when the Assistant Attorney-General's office was temporarily attorney allowed. when the Assistant Attorner-General's office was temporarily untenanted, although not all of the clerks had gone home, and the details were easily supplied.

When the facts disclosed were reported to him. Postmaster-General Payne wrote Mr. Tyner the following letter:

Apan., 22, 1903.

Hon. James N. Tyner, Assistant Attorney-General.

Sir-You are hereby removed from the office of Assistant Attorney-General for the Post Office Department. I deem it proper for me to give you the reasons for this summary action on the part of the Department. Early in the month of March I communicated to you through a mutual friend a request for your resignation. After a painful interview with you, and a more painful one with Mrs. Tyner, I consented to modify the demand for your resignation so that it might take effect on May 1, 1903, with the provise, however, that you were given leave of absence from the time of the acceptance of the resignation to the date of its taking effect, with the understanding that you were not in any way to undertake to discharge the duties of the office.

Late yesterday afternoon Mrs. Tyner James N. Tyner, Assistant Attorney with the understanding that you were not in any way to undertake to discharge the duties of the office.

Late yesterday afternoon Mrs. Tyner came to the office of the Assistant Attorney-General for the Post Office Department, entering in the regular way, and went through the main office to the private office, closing the door behind her. She then unlocked the door entering from the public hall into the private room and admitted her sister. Mrs. Barrett, whose son was formerly an assistant in your office, and whose conduct is now under investigation by the Department. She also admitted in the same manner, Mr. G. G. Hamner, an expert in the employ of the Mosler Safe Company, with whom she had made an arrangement to meet her at the Department. At her direction Mr. Ramner opened the safe in the room and she took thereform all papers, records and articles of every kind and carried them away with her. Immediately upon learning of what had been done. I directed the Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General to send two inspectors to your house to demand, in the name of the Postmaster-General, the delivery of any papers, documents or other materials which had been abstracted from the safe. This demand was remaded by Mrs. Tyner, and she likewise refused to permit the inspectors to see you or to see and examine the papers in her presence. Mrs. Tyner further stated to the Post Office inspectors that sine committed this act with your lawed de and by your direction.

Further comment on this transaction on my part, is not necessary. The facts in the case will be submitted to the Attorney-General of the United States for such action in the premises as he may deem proper. Very respectfully.

Post Office Department officials are relucted to express an opinion as to Mr. Tyner's reasons for directing that the safe where his private papers as well as the important public records of the Assistant Attorney-General's office were kept, be rifled, but they admit that they have drawn certain natural inferences which they do not ease to dwell u certain natural inferences which they do not care to dwell upon, pending a settlement of the case. They do not hesitate to say, however, that whatever may be the character and contents of the papers Mr. Tyner was so anxious to secure, he made a very unwise move in proceeding in the manner he did, and a move whose serious consequences can only be averted by reason of his apparently irresponsible condition and his long and honorable service in the Department.

his long and honorable service in the Department.

There has been much open discussion at the Department to-day, however, concerning the part played in the safe rifling episode by Mrs. Barrett, wife of the former Assistant Attorney-General, Harrison J. Barrett, Mr. Tyner's nephew, who has appeared before the Department as counsel for many fraudulent mail concerns and whose undue influence with Gen. Tyner relative to decisions affecting these concerns has been brought into question. Mr. Barrett's connection with these matters has been under investigation for some time, but Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General Bristow, who is conducting the inquiry, will not say who is conducting the inquiry, will not say what he has learned.

It is generally known that a Washington firm, operating through a "stool pigeon," has been in the habit of sending blackmailing letters to mail concerns throughout the country whose methods were considered questionable, and charges have been made that Mr. Barrett was interested in this transaction and that it was he whose influence was used to secure the approval.

in this transaction and that it was ne whose influence was used to secure the approval of the Assistant Attorney-General's office for mail schemes of a doubtful nature.

Whether this is true, the investigation into this and similar matters will, as a result of the recent development, be made more thorough and searching than the originally contemplated and every made more thorough and searching than was originally contemplated, and every detail of Mr. Tyner's administration of the Assistant Attorney-General's office, and the relations that existed between him and Mr. Barrett will be carefully inquired into. The investigation into the blackmailing methods of the Washington firm above referred to has been going on for some time, and to such effect that several lawyers well known in Washington will probably be disbarred from practice before the Government departments and the Washington bar. Action to this end only awaits the securing of absolute proof.

Postmaster-General Payne to-day refused to say whether summary action

Postmaster-General Payne to-day refused to say whether summary action would be taken against Mr. Typer to compel him to give up the Government papers taken from the rifled safe and which are now in his possession. He said that the matter had been turned over to the inspectors and the law officers of the Department.

ors and the law officers of the Department, who would proceed under the direction of the officers of the Department of Justice.

The inspectors who have been working on the case are equally reticent, but in view of the powers possessed by them and the fear expressed in high quarters to-day that the valuable papers in Mr. Tyner's possession would be mutilated or destroyed, it is confidently expected that unless the documents are at once handed over to the proper authorities, that arrests will follow.

Section 5,440 says:

If two or more persons conspire together to commit any offence against the United States or to defraud the United States in noy manner or for any purpose, and one or more parties do any act to affect the object of the conspiracy, all the parties to such conspiracy shall be liable to a penalty of not less than $1,000 and not more than $10,000 and to imprisonment for not more than $10,000 and to imprisonment for not more than two years. It is believed that Mrs. Tyner, Mrs. Barrett and G. G. Hamner can be indicted individually under Section 5.40%; that Gen. Tyner can be held accountable under Section 5.40%, and that Mr. and Mrs. Tyner, Mrs. Barrett and Hamner are liable for conspiracy under the last section quoted. Just what action the Government will take and just how rigorously proceedings against the four persons implicated will be prosecuted will depend largely upon whether the documents and records which were taken from the safe have been destroyed or whether they are returned to the Department intact.

GEN. TYNER'S STATEMENT.

He Says, Through His Wife, That He Con WASHINGTON, April 23.-Mrs. Tyner, on behalf of Gen. Tyner, to-night gave out the public a suspension of judgment until he can put before them the facts relating to his removal from office and the cause assigned therefor by the Postmaster-General matter has come upon him so suddenly that he cannot now make a detailed statement, but must necessarily confine himself to the following general account:

"In July last he was stricken with paraly sis, from which he has only partially recov ered. Realizing that his usefulness as public officer was seriously impaired, h conferred with the Postmaster-General as to the time of his resignation, and it was agreed between them that it should be accepted to take effect on May 1, 1903. On Tuesday last, feeling that the time of his retirement from office was very near, he office certain private property and papers belonging to his wife and to himself. These were contained in a safe in his room at the Post Office Department

"For the many years during which he has been connected with that Department he been connected with that Department he has had a room which has been virtually his own and a safe in this room in which he has kept personal papers. This is a practice which has been common for years for the chief officials of the Government departments. Gen. Tyner's health prevented his going in person to open this safe and remove his papers therefrom. Even had he been able to leave his house his disabled arm would have prevented. his disabled arm would have prevented

Even had he been able to leave his house his disabled arm would have prevented him from opening the safe.

"Accordingly, he requested Mrs. Tyner to act for him, giving her the combination of the safe. Upon her reminding him that she could not open it even with the combination, he directed her to telephone for Mr. Hamner, who had on a prior occasion opened it for him. This was accordingly done, and Mrs. Tyner made an appointment for Mr. Hamner to meet her at the General's room at half past 3 on Tuesday last. Mrs. Barrett, who is Mr.. Tyner's sister and who lives in the same house with her, accompanied her, as she did not wish to go alone.

They did not reach the Department until 3:45 o'clock. It is easy to see now that it would have been better had Mrs. Tyner gone to the Postmaster-General and asked him to be present and supervise her act. But neither Gen. Tyner nor she herself contemplated any wrongdoing, or imagined.

many years of service and ner frequent visits to his room made it seem only natural that she should go there to take his property, since he could not go himself.

Mrs. Tyner removed from this safe its contents, all that she had been instructed to get. A messenger of the Department made these papers into a bundle and carried the service the General's houses.

*Shortly after he reached there two inspectors from the Department came to the house and demanded these papers. Gen. Tyner, upon the spur of the moment and without other guide than his indignation, refused to deliver them.

*Later on in the same evening he sent a letter to Mr. Bristow, asking him to come to his house, intending to put the papers.

to his house, intending to put the papers in his charge. Unfortunately, Mr. Bristow was unable to come. These papers are now in the possession of Gen. Tyner, in the same condition as they were when taken from the safe.

"They are all the private papers of General and of Mrs. Tyner, save one bundle, which relates to a matter not at all connected relates to a matter not at all connected with anything now pending with the Department and long since closed. These papers will all be placed at the disposal of the proper authorities of the Government."

General and Mrs. Tyner have retained as counsel in their present difficulties the law firm of Dudley & Michiner and W. Ross Perry, and the above statement was given out after a long consultation between these gentlemen and Mr. and Mrs. Tyner.

JOE WANTS AN EXTRA SESSION. To Resive the Municipal Gas Bill. &c.

King. he had had a talk with William F. King, former president of the Merchants' Association, who had had a talk with Gov. Odell, and that if the metropolitan newspapers would arouse enough sentiment the Governor would call an extraordinary session for the purpose of considering the defeated bills calling for two extra Rairoad Commissioners, whose duties would be to look after the surface railroad affairs of New York city, and the Robert Grier Monroe bill for a municipal gas plant.

Some of the answers to Mr. Johnson, it was added, were not agreeable.

When Mrs. Tyner was asked whether any of the persons who had accompanied her to the Department on Tuesday afternoon had been arrested she laughed heartily and exclaimed in apparent surprise:

Arrested? Why, who is thinking of arresting any one?

Mrs. Tyner refused to discuss the nature of the papers which she took such unusual manner to secure, or to talk on any other features of the case than those above mentioned.

There was great unanimity of sentiment shown when Mr. Turle proposed the first toast to the President, "The head of the Government of the country where so many have found a home and most imperial prosperity." CHARGES AGAINST MR. WYNNE. First Assistant Postmaster-General Said to Be Morally Unfit for Office.

WASHINGTON, April 23 .- Postmaster Genral Payne to-day admitted for the first time that he knew charges had been filed with President Roosevelt against First Payne said that these charges had not been brought to his attention officially, and so far as he knew their present status rested on a question of verselty between Senator Latimer of South Carolina, who brought he charges, and Mr. Wynne, who denied them. It is known that some time ago Senator Latimer went to see Mr. Wynne and asked him to secure a place in the free delivery division for a woman friend. According to Senator Latimer. Mr. Wynne responded that the free delivery division was already full of "Congressmen's women" and that he could not grant the request. Then Senator Latimer says he shook his fist under Mr. Wynne's nose and demanded fist under Mr. Wynne's nose and demanded and secured an apology.

Not content with this, however, he called on President Roosevelt and filed several charges against Mr. Wynne, alleging personal and moral unfitness for office. Mr. Wynne was called to the White House and denied to the President that, he and Senator Lattimer had had any such conversation as was alleged. The President took no action in the matter, and the indications are that he was satisfied with Mr. Wynne's explanation. Senator Lattimer is known to have declared, however, that he would spare no efforts to secure the removal of Mr. Wynne.

Mr. Payne said to-day: "No charges have been filed with me against Mr. Wynne, but I knew that Senator Lattimer had gone to see the President, and supposed, as no action was taken, that Mr. Wynne's explanation was satisfactory."

planation was satisfactory.

"As I understand it, the whole matter was a question of veracity between Senator Lattimer and Mr. Wynne and, was altogether a most unfortunate affair. It has not been brought to my attention, however, through official channels, and is rather in the nature of a personal dispute."

omicial channels, and is rather in the nature of a personal dispute."

It is probable that before very long friends of former Supt. Beavers of the Salary and Allowance Division, and of Supt. Machen of the Free Delivery Division will file detailed charges against Mr. Wynne, specifying other acts of alleged improper conduct and certain alleged improper remarks concerning the women employees of the Department.

SLEUTHS HEARD A STOLEN TUNE And Recovered the Phonograph Taken From Mr. Weiss's House.

The home of Henry Weiss at 969 Fores avenue, in The Bronz, was robbed last Saturday night and silverware and jewelry valued at $100 and a phonograph with a half a dozen records were, taken. The robbery was reported to the police of the Morrisania station and Detectives Badger and Murtha started hunting for the thieves. Mr. Weiss gave them the number of the phonograph and the names of the songs on the records. The detectives were passing William Smith's locksmith shop at 34 6 Third avenue yesterday afternoon when they heard a phonograph. They went in and found the locksmith talking to a young man who was trying to persuade him to buy the machine at a bargain. As the sleuths entered the young man put in a new record and the strains of "Pack Your Clothes and Go" filled the air. The detectives looked at their notes and found that that was one of the tunes on the stolen records. The machine also hore the number given by Weiss. So they took him to the station, where he said he was Fred Detwiller, an electrician, living at 3377 Third avenue. He was locked up after he told the police that he had bought the phenograph from another young man. valued at $100 and a phonograph with a

"Willie, you smell as though you had whiskey on your clothes."

Then Willie told his mother about falling into the brook. Mrs. Brown told her husband. He also noticed the odor of whiskey. They reported to Chief of Police Foley. Detectives located the still in the barn.

The officers found a large copper condenser, forty barrels of mash and several barrels of whiskey, brown sugar and molasses. It was learned that there were seven moonshiners, all Jews. and that they slept during the day and worked at hight.

A mysterious wagon,known to the neighbors as the "Black Maria," used to leave the still every night and go to New York. The moonshiners peddled their product among the Jews on the lower East Side.

Boys' $5 to $8 Suits, $3

THIS is an offering of about two hundred and fifty Sailor Suits, not one of the lot of which is worth less than $5, and others are worth up to $8. All are made of absolutely pure wool serge and cheviot in light and dark colors.

Of course, it is a collection of various odd groups in which the sizes are not complete in any particular style, but there are suits for all ages from three to twelve years. It is certainly

A Sale of Spring and Summer Hosiery and Underwear

THIS is an offering of excellent garments for both men and women, in exactly the weights that are wanted at this time. All the goods are perfect in every way, though offered at one-quarter to one-half below their regular selling prices. The offering of open-work stockings and socks at 12%c, instead of 25c, is one of the most notable bargains that have been seen in a long time. The other offerings in the sale, while not quite so startling, are still most extraordinary. Details follow:
